

ELA.5.C.3.1

Sentence Structures

Use appositives, main clauses, and subordinate clauses

Lesson Objectives

After going through this lesson, you are expected to:

- a. Define appositives
- b. Identify main clauses and subordinate clauses
- c. Combine clauses to improve sentence variety

What Is a Clause?

A clause is a group of words with a subject and a verb.

There are two main types:

- Main (Independent) Clause
- Subordinate (Dependent) Clause

What Is a Main Clause?

A main clause:

- Has a subject + verb
- Expresses a complete thought
- Can stand alone as a sentence

Examples:

- The students finished their project.
- I enjoy reading mystery novels.

What Is a Subordinate Clause?

A subordinate clause:

- Has a subject + verb
- Does not express a complete thought
- Begins with subordinating words (because, although, when, if, etc.)

Examples:

- because she studied
- although it was raining
- when the bell rang

Combining Main and Subordinate Clauses

EXAMPLES:

Although it was raining, we went outside.

We went outside although it was raining.

When the bell rang, the students left.

What Is an Appositive?

An appositive:

- Is a noun or noun phrase
- Renames or gives more information about another noun
- Often set off by commas

Example:

My sister, a talented musician, plays the piano.

Identifying Appositives

EXAMPLES:

Dr. Smith, our principal, greeted the students.

Paris, the capital of France, is beautiful.

My dog Buddy loves to run. (essential appositive — no commas)

Combining All Three in One Sentence

Example:

- My brother, a college athlete, stayed home because he was sick.
 - Main clause: My brother stayed home.
 - Appositive: a college athlete
 - Subordinate clause: because he was sick

Another example:

- The teacher, a patient mentor, smiled when the class improved.

Activity

Correcting Shift Tenses

Exercis

Directions: Identify the appositive, main clause, and subordinate clause.

Identify each part:

1. The movie, a thrilling adventure, ended suddenly.
2. Although the test was difficult, she passed.
3. My teacher, an expert in biology, explained the lesson when we asked.

Answer

1. The movie, a thrilling adventure, ended suddenly.

- Main Clause: The movie ended suddenly.
- Appositive: a thrilling adventure
- Subordinate Clause: None

2. Although the test was difficult, she passed.

- Main Clause: she passed
- Subordinate Clause: Although the test was difficult
- Appositive: None

3. My teacher, an expert in biology, explained the lesson when we asked.

- Main Clause: My teacher explained the lesson
- Appositive: an expert in biology
- Subordinate Clause: when we asked

Thank You